APPENDIX A SCOPE OF SERVICES

In One Second Collaborative, United Way will develop and implement a comprehensive community-led plan to reduce gun violence in Tarrant County based on the Department of Justice's (DOJ) Best Practices to Address Community Gang Problems. United Way will lead a steering committee of 12 stakeholder groups through the development of a community assessment of gang and gun violence. The community assessment will include all data elements recommended by DOJ and resident focus groups. Texas Christian University and Rutgers University will support the research elements for the steering committee. The steering committee will develop a community plan to address gun violence that includes all elements from the DOJ's best practices toolkit: prevention of delinquency and gang violence, multi-disciplinary intervention for gang members, suppression of criminal activity through community awareness and community policing, and reentry activities to prevent a return to gang involvement. After the plan is approved, the steering committee and United Way lead the implementation of the plan, including seeking applications from community partners. The One Second Collaborative addresses the increased community violence and gun violence noted in the county needs assessment and meets the county's goal to mitigate community violence.

Target Population: United Way proposes to reduce gun violence in the disproportionately affected communities identified in the county needs assessment based on the Social Vulnerability Index and the Community Resilience Estimates. Many of these neighborhoods are low-income or minority-majority neighborhoods with historically less public investment and disproportionate health and safety outcomes. These communities had disproportionate impacts from COVID-19, and many had disproportionate increases in crime.

Outcomes: The One Second Collaborative will work with 12 groups to develop a comprehensive community assessment and plan to reduce gang and gun violence in the county. Through this plan, the community will know 100% of the areas with the highest gang crime rates. When implemented, the plan will provide prevention to 2,050 youth to keep them from engaging in gun violence or delinquency. This will result in a 10% decrease in crime. 875 youth will participate in intervention activities from a multi-disciplinary team. 70% of these youth will make positive life changes and 80% will avoid behavior that results in an arrest. Suppression activities will serve 1,200 people to reduce crime in targeted areas. 150 people will receive re-entry support to reduce recidivism and ongoing criminal activity. Together, the initiative will reduce violent crime and gang activity in Fort Worth and Tarrant County and will reduce the racial, socio-economic, and geographic disparities in crime victimization, unsafe neighborhoods, and criminal justice involvement.
